

MOTHER OF PRESIDENT TRUMAN DIES

ABE LINCOLN'S PAPERS PROVE VALUED HOARD

SENSATION-SEEKERS FIND NOTHING IN DOCUMENTS

BY ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Washington, July 26 (AP)—A mine of background information but a blank for sensation-seekers was the appraisal today of the Abraham Lincoln papers his son collected and sealed until 21 years after his own death.

Scholars and historians who began examining the Robert Todd Lincoln collection at the Library of Congress as soon as they were opened early today called them an indispensable mine of information for students of Lincoln and the Civil War period.

"This," one enthusiastically reported, "is the richest collection of Lincoln material."

No Skeletons
The papers bring out no new skeletons from the closets of Lincoln or others of his day.

Roy P. Basler, prominent Lincoln authority, said nothing was found to support suggestions that high officials in the Lincoln administration might have been implicated in the plot to assassinate him.

There is one letter which scholars say could be construed as a refutation of stories questioning Lincoln's parentage. It was written to the Rail Splitter by John D. Johnston, his step-brother, saying that his father was dying and wished to see him "for you are his only child that is of his own flesh and blood."

Examination of the papers so far have revealed virtually no new information on the three women in Lincoln's life: Ann Rutledge, his boyhood sweetheart; Mary Owens, the comely Kentucky girl who rejected him; and Mary Todd Lincoln, his unhappy wife.

Some Lincoln authorities believe that Robert Todd Lincoln, who was zealous in guarding the good name of his mother, destroyed all of her letters which came into his possession.

The period covered by the dated documents extends from May 1, 1833—six days before the jobless young Lincoln was appointed postmaster of New Salem, Ill.—to April 14, 1865, the day of his murder.

The collection contains nearly 1,000 papers, including official documents penned by Lincoln himself.

The Lincoln experts who checked the papers hurriedly today say it is too early to attempt a final appraisal of their value. They emphasize that while the facts revealed by the collection so far are not necessarily spectacular, they throw much light upon the manner in which Lincoln handled the tough situations in which he was placed.

One of the experts said that the new material on Fort Sumter shows Lincoln's patient attempts to avoid war.

VETERAN EDITOR DIES

Detroit, July 26 (AP)—Harold E. (Hal) Mitchell, 78, former managing editor of the Detroit Free Press and who spent 40 years as a newspaper man in the Midwest, died today.

Mitchell, a native of St. Joseph, Mo., served the Duluth (Minn.) News Tribune in an executive capacity from 1900 until 1913 and was night editor of the Milwaukee (Wis.) Sentinel before going to the Free Press here in 1918. He retired in 1931.

Forrestal Named Head Of Unified Army-Navy

BY ELTON C. FAY

Washington, July 26 (AP)—President Truman made unification of the armed forces an actuality today and named James V. Forrestal to head them as secretary of defense.

The president signed into law the bill Congress finally gave him after two years of urging and issued an executive order assigning the functions and responsibilities of the three co-equal branches—the departments of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

So eager was Mr. Truman to get the thing done that he delayed his departure for his dying mother's bedside for 17 minutes in order to sign the legislation aboard his plane here. Even without that delay, however, he would not have reached Grandview, Mo., before his mother's death.

One reason for the haste was so that the Senate might confirm Forrestal's nomination to the new cabinet post before its adjournment.

Chairman Gurney (R-S. D.) of the Senate armed services committee took steps to win speedy confirmation after his committee unanimously approved Forrestal. But in any case Forrestal could serve under a recess appointment until the next session of Congress.

The pugnacious, square-jawed

Forrestal, as secretary of the Navy, was the last member of the late President Roosevelt's cabinet still in office. His selection as secretary of defense had been generally expected.

While the law and the executive order are effective immediately, officials said extensive conferences among the Army, Navy and Air Force departments will be necessary before the program can be translated into terms of offices, functions and men.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Army chief of staff, made this evident in a message to all Army

INVASION ARMY POISED IN CUBA

Communists Prepare To Start Revolution In Dominican Republic

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Dominican Ambassador Julio Ortega Frier said today a 3,000-man "army of Communist revolutionaries" from Cuba, Guatemala, Venezuela and Puerto Rico is poised in Cuba to invade the Dominican Republic.

The ambassador told a reporter he has information that a boatload of 1,000 men was scheduled to leave last night from the eastern Cuban port of Antillas.

Antillas is about 400 airline miles from Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican capital, and about 250 airline miles from the nearest point in the Dominican Republic. The entire Dominican army, the envoy said, had been fully alerted to meet the attack.

Ortega Frier said the Dominican government had informed the United States government and protested to Cuba.

He added that one expedition of about 1,000 men was supposed to have left from Antillas, Cuba, last night with other forces concentrated in other ports.

"We know all their military plans, what types of weapons they have and who paid for them," the ambassador said.

Existence of the plan was confirmed recently when two Puerto Rican "revolutionaries" broke loose from Cuba and told Miami police about it, Ortega Frier said.

Returning Workers At Remington Rand To Get Protection

Benton Harbor, Mich., July 26 (AP)—State Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard today promised protection to any employees who seek to return to work at the strikebound Remington Rand Corp.

At the same time he said state police would protect the rights of any employee wishing to continue the strike and picket peacefully.

"Not once since our boys went over there has there been any disorder," Leonard declared in Detroit.

Of the proposed reopening, he said:

"If the Remington Rand Corp. decides to reopen its plant in Benton Harbor, and if some of its employees decide they want to return, they have a right to protection and we will be in there to give them protection if the local authorities so require and are unable to handle the situation themselves."

Daniel Cunningham, manager of the struck plant, immediately announced that the company would make plans to reopen "as soon as it receives word from Leonard or one of his officers."

No Second Fiddle Spot For Stassen In 1948 Campaign
Ogden, Utah, July 26 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen, avowed Republican presidential candidate, was quoted by the Salt Lake Tribune today as spurning any thought of becoming a vice presidential nominee.

In an interview with a Tribune reporter here during a brief stop last night en route to the west coast, Stassen was quoted:

"There was positively nothing to the rumor that I might become a running mate to Governor Dewey as nominee for the vice presidency if the New York governor should get the Republican nomination for president."

"I am a definite candidate for the presidency of the United States on the Republican ticket on my own, and not for any other spot."

commanders throughout the whole world. It said there will be no change in the official status of the Army and the new independent United States Air Force until "specific orders are issued." These orders would implement the president's executive order.

Gen. A. A. Vandegrift, commander of the Marine Corps, noted in a statement that "Marines opposed the original provisions of the bill" but he called upon "every Marine to carry out not only the letter but the spirit of the unification law." The act as passed stipulates that the functions of the Marines under the Navy shall be preserved.

Aside from Forrestal's nomination, Mr. Truman made no immediate move to fill other posts set up under the law. At least for a time acting civilian chiefs of the three departments will be Kenneth C. Royall for Army, John L. Sullivan for Navy and J. Stuart Symington for Air. Sullivan is undersecretary of the Navy and Symington assistant secretary of war for Air.

Royall will have served as a cabinet member for one of the shortest times in the government's history. He was sworn in as secretary of war last Thursday. But under the unification law only the secretary of defense has official cabinet status.

Connally declared that no one would have had assurance of a fair trial in the court where Ferguson formerly was a judge. At that demands were made that the Texan be silenced and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), presiding, ruled that he should proceed "in order."

After this flurry the Senate resumed the dispatch of its final business.

Nomination Confirmed
By unanimous consent it confirmed the nomination of James V. Forrestal as Secretary of Defense under the new act to bring the armed services under unified direction. President Truman had sent the nomination to the Senate only today, before he flew to Grandview, Mo., where his mother died. The Senate rules had to be suspended to confirm Forrestal so quickly.

The House meanwhile had gone home after its members had engaged in several hours of singing and fun. Its major business was concluded by 9 p. m. (EST) last night.

The last business in the House was approval of a final conference version of a measure carrying $105,000,000 in supplemental appropriations. It then went over to the Senate, which still had other money bills to pass.

Three major appropriation measures which had been in dispute for weeks were passed quickly, however, on voice votes. They provided $1,657,000,000 for foreign programs, $960,000,000 for agriculture and $35,040,000 for the government corporations.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told a reporter the Senate would quit without acting on President Truman's pending nomination if the appropriations debate dragged on. These include the nominations of Philip B. Perlman of Baltimore for solicitor general and many postmasters. Taft made an exception only today to be Secretary of Defense under the armed forces unification act.

Congress does not plan to meet again until January—unless President Truman or his own Republican leaders, in control on Capitol Hill for the first time in more than 15 years, call it back.

The lawmakers decided to give themselves power to convene whenever they think it necessary in view of the state of the world.

But few members think there will be any need for a special session and scores have arranged trips to all parts of the world on investigations and studies.

Republicans Fail To Raise Veterans School Subsistence

Washington, July 26 (AP)—The Democratic National Committee tonight assailed what it called "failure of the Republican domination raising the subsistence allowance of veterans attending school under the GI Bill of Rights."

The statement quoted Republican leaders as saying a prospect of a presidential veto was the reason for failure to bring out for House action the Senate approved measure boosting the payments by $15 a month.

BUSY SESSION IS WOUND UP BY CONGRESS

REPUBLICANS POINT WITH PRIDE TO PROGRAM

BY WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Washington, July 27 (Sunday) (AP)—The House adjourned early today until January, unless a special session of Congress should be called, but the Senate became embroiled in political argument with additional work still to do.

An attack on Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) by Senator Connally (D-Tex.) in connection with the investigation of Attorney General Clark's handling of the Kansas City vote fraud charges threw the Senate into an uproar.

Brewster's surprise motion came a few moments after he had objected to Senate confirmation of the nomination of Philip Perlman to be United States solicitor general.

Connally declared that no one would have had assurance of a fair trial in the court where Ferguson formerly was a judge. At that demands were made that the Texan be silenced and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), presiding, ruled that he should proceed "in order."

Dewey Campaign Trip Swings Into Michigan Without Usual Fanfare

By HENRY LEADER

Detroit, July 26 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York arrived in Detroit tonight to make a quiet "second choice" bid for Michigan's 21 delegate vote in his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

Taking for granted that the state's senior senator, Arthur H. Vandenberg, holds first place in the affections of the party in Michigan, Dewey is reported determined not to step on the toes of the forces supporting Vandenberg's nomination.

Dewey will motor to his native Owosso tomorrow to visit his widowed mother, Mrs. Annie Dewey, for four days. The governor, with his wife and two sons, came to Michigan from Cheyenne, Wyo.

SPALDING BOY DIES OF BURNS

Gasoline Explosion At Farm Fatal To Berry Volgot, Age 5

Berry Joseph Volgot, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Volgot of Spalding, died at St. Francis hospital at 1:45 Saturday afternoon from burns suffered in a gasoline explosion.

The fatal mishap occurred at the farm home in Spalding. Mr. Volgot was drawing gasoline from a tank for farm machinery when a neighbor stopped by, smoking.

The shock of the explosion threw the five-year-old boy into the container of burning gasoline. He was rescued by his father, who sustained second and third degree burns about his arms and hands.

Berry, who was to begin school this fall, was rushed to St. Francis hospital for treatment. He was brought to St. Francis hospital shortly before noon. Plasma and other drugs were used, but to no avail.

As Mr. and Mrs. Volgot were leaving the hospital, blinded by the tragedy, they saw their car burning on the street. In their rush to the hospital the engine had become overheated and started the fire. Both fire trucks were called to the scene, but Mr. Volgot had the fire out when they arrived. The car was ruined.

Berry Joseph Volgot was born November 2, in Racine, Wis., and had been living in Spalding for the past three years. In addition to his parents Berry is survived by a sister, Sharon May.

The body was brought to Boyle funeral home in Bark River where funeral arrangements will be completed.

Son Falls In Lake; Muskegon Father Brings Him To Life

Cadillac, Mich., July 26 (AP)—Artificial respiration applied by a Muskegon father saved the life today of his ten-year-old son.

The father, Homer P. Pease, watched the body of his son, Eddie, turn to normal hue after it was dragged blue and limp from Lake Cadillac by Robert L. Olson.

The boy was wading with his sister Bette, 11, when an undercurrent carried him into a hole.

Firemen, who arrived with a pulmotor after Pease's successful resuscitation, took the boy to Mercy hospital where he was placed under medical care.

OLD MISSOURI SETTLER GONE AT AGE OF 94

FAMED SON ARRIVES AT GRANDVIEW IN PRIVATE PLANE

Grandview, Mo., July 26 (AP)—Mrs. Martha E. Truman, mother of the nation's president, died today four hours before the chief executive arrived here in his private plane.

The courageous, 94-year-old woman, died at 11:30 a. m. (Central Standard Time) an hour after President Truman had taken off from Washington. He was notified of his mother's death while in flight.

Miss Mary Jane Truman, the president's sister, and his brother, J. Vivian Truman, were with their mother when she died.

The president's plane landed at the Grandview airport at 4:24 p. m. (EST). The solemn-faced chief executive was met by his wife and daughter, Margaret. They left immediately in a secret service car for the nearby modest cottage where other members of the family waited. Mr. Truman made no statement and no pictures were taken.

Services Monday
A few moments later the president and his brother and sister left the Grandview home and drove to a nearby Belton, Mo., mortuary where his mother's body lay.

Accompanying the president in his plane, the Sacred Cow, were Press Secretary Charles G. Ross; Matthew Connelly, secretary; Rear Admiral James H. Fossitt, naval aide; Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, the president's personal physician; Charles S. Murphy, executive assistant and Jack Romagna, White House stenographer.

Press Secretary Ross said Mrs. Truman will be buried at Forest Hill cemetery beside her husband, John Truman, according to her wishes.

The Rev. Welbern Bowman of the Grandview Baptist church will hold private family services at the Grandview home at 3 p. m. Monday, to be followed by interment.

The president requested flowers be omitted. He asked those who would like to give flowers to send them to some living person. Ross said this also was the wish of the elder Mrs. Truman.

The body, previously taken to the E. L. George and Son funeral home at Belton, will be returned to the Grandview home this evening.

Relapse In May
Mr. Truman, who drove to the mortuary within minutes after arriving at his mother's home, returned to Grandview and later went to Independence to spend the night at the summer White House. His wife and daughter accompanied him.

Washington source said they believed the president was notified of his mother's death while in flight. They believed the half hour delay in the public announcement was to enable the family to get word to the chief executive on

VETERANS MAY CASH IN BONDS

Truman Signs Bill, But Sees Danger Of Inflation

Washington, July 26 (AP)—President Truman signed a bill today allowing war veterans holding terminal leave bonds to cash them any time after Sept. 1 but advised them not to do so.

"I wish to emphasize strongly that it is to the veterans' best interest that they keep their bonds if they do not absolutely need to cash them now," his statement said.

"Almost $2,000,000,000 of bonds are outstanding. If a sizeable portion of these bonds should be redeemed in the near future, general inflationary pressures, which we have been endeavoring to control, would receive a substantial boost. Several hundred million dollars poured into the spending stream would exert a strong upward pressure on prices."

"If, on the other hand, veterans choose the wise course, hold their bonds and continue to draw 2½ per cent interest, their dollars will buy more when the cash their bonds after inflationary conditions have eased."

Voters Nominate Candidates In Congressional Primary Tuesday

11TH DISTRICT SEAT AT STAKE

Seven Republicans And Two Democrats Seek Nominations

In 16 counties of Michigan, including Delta, voters will go to the polls Tuesday to nominate two candidates, one Republican and one Democrat, who will contest for election as congressman of the 11th congressional district to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Congressman Fred Bradley of Rogers City.

Following Rep. Bradley's death, Gov. Sigler ordered a special election to fill the vacancy. The primary will be held Tuesday, and the general election on August 26. The special election has attracted the largest primary field of candidates in this congressional district in many years, but it has not aroused more than lukewarm interest among the voters.

There are seven Republicans and two Democrats competing for nomination on their tickets in the primary. The 11th congressional district includes the seven eastern counties of the Upper Peninsula and nine of the top tier counties in Lower Michigan.

Two of the seven Republican candidates are from Lower Michigan, and the other five hail from above the Straits—with three in Chippewa county.

Local Candidates
On the Republican ticket Escanaba has its home-town candidate in George E. Harvey, a railroad engineer, whose background includes terms of office as sheriff and clerk of Delta county. He has been prominent in Republican affairs and is well-known among the Railroad Brotherhoods in this area.

The two rival candidates for nomination on the Democratic ticket could be considered residents of Delta county. They are Mrs. Violet Patterson of Perkins and Lansing, who, it will be recalled, narrowly missed election as Delta county representative in the state legislature last year. She was defeated by some 40 votes in a recount conducted by a legislative committee.

The other Democratic candidate is Harold Beaton, who spent a considerable part of his life in Delta county. Beaton has also been active in Democratic political affairs and served two terms as prosecuting attorney in Mackinac county. He is a veteran of World War II and resigned his position with the Department of Justice in Washington to become a candidate for Congress.

Three From Soo
Besides George Harvey of Escanaba, the six other primary candidates on the Republican ticket are as follows:

Victor A. Knox of Sault Ste. Marie, speaker of the House of Representatives, who is known throughout the state because of that position and generally considered a strong contender for the nomination.

George Gribbich of Sault Ste. Marie, state senator from the 30th district, who has conducted an active primary campaign and is well known in the district, is rated high among the top contenders for the Republican nomination.

Third candidate from Chippewa county is William B. Forsyth, Sault Ste. Marie cosmetic manufacturer.

Political observers say that Otto W. Bishop of Alpena, state senator in the 29th district for 14 years, and for the last eight years elected without opposition, will lead the Republican ticket below the Straits. This may win the nomination for him, since the Upper Peninsula area is divided in allegiance with a number of local candidates.

Also from Lower Michigan is Charles E. Potter of Cheboygan, a World War II veteran and an amputee who is making a strong bid for the voters' vote.

Polls Open To 8 P. M.

The seventh Republican primary candidate is Uno S. A. Heggblom of Manistique and Detroit but has maintained his residence in Manistique, although he has been absent from that city for a number of years. Heggblom lost the 1940 nomination to Bradley.

The polls will open at 7 a. m. and will remain open to 8 p. m. both in the city and county.

The polling places for the various precincts in the city of Escanaba are as follows:

First precinct: Carnegie Public Library; Second: Franklin school building; Third: City hall building; Fourth: Jefferson school building; Fifth: Junior high school building; Sixth: Barr school building; Seventh: Fire Station No. 2 on Sheridan Road; Eighth: Senior high school building.

At the polls the voters will receive two ballots—the Republican and Democratic—in the secret primary. They will vote the ballot of their choice and return both, folded, for deposit in the ballot box.

SADIE HOPPER IS FINED $300

Liquor License Suspended For Seven Days On Year-old Charge

The Michigan liquor control commission yesterday reported that it had ordered the seven-day suspension of two liquor licenses held by Sadie Hopper of Isabella, and ordered that the licensee pay fines totaling more than $300.

Four violations were charged against the holder of the Class C and SDM licenses. They were: 1—Selling whiskey off the premises without the proper type of license; 2—Consuming on the premises; 3—Living quarters connected; 4—Uncancelled stamps (7 beer stamps and 2 wine stamps).

The violations as charged occurred on two different dates in July, 1946. The hearing in the case was held in Escanaba Friday, May 23, 1947.

The liquor commission's finding of fact was that a supervisor inspecting the premises found that a door leading from the living quarters was open to the grocery store adjoining the Class C bar room. The husband of the licensee was consuming a bottle of beer in the grocery store. It was further stated that seven empty beer cases and two empty wine cases were found with stamps intact.

Three young men, two of them minors, were in the licensed establishment on July 2. One of the minors testified that the three of them went into the establishment together, but that he did not see the other two make any purchase of whiskey.

The commission ordered that a $7 fine be paid for the uncanceled stamps; $20 fine be paid for the uncanceled wine stamps; a $300 fine be paid and both licenses be suspended for seven days, and that the door to the living quarters be closed off.

Diagnose Polio Early, Says Medicine
Minneapolis, (SS.)—Doctors should diagnose and treat infantile paralysis early in order to reduce discomfort and crippling of the victims, Dr. John F. Pohl of the Elizabeth Kenny Institute here urges in a report appearing in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Headache is the most distinctive initial complaint. This is usually a severe, generalized, unremitting type, which is rare in the illnesses of childhood.

Spasm, which is shortening of the muscles, appears early and is present in every case, Dr. Pohl also found in studying 1,125 cases of poliomyelitis during the 1946 epidemic. Paralysis is not a common early symptom, however.

The first official census of the Netherlands East Indies, in 1905, showed a population of 38,000,000. In 1940, it was 70,000,000.

Richard Doremus Is Now
Writing Book At
M-35 Cottage

The well known radio dramas, Curtain Time and The First Night, which you will be hearing during the coming season, are now being written at the Cove, summer cottage owned by Mrs. William McKeever, on M-35, a few miles beyond Ford River.

Author of these radio plays is Richard Doremus who, with his wife, have been staying at the cottage since April and plan to stay there until late fall. At the same time, he is writing a book, dealing with the experiences of a doctor who serves the lumbering and mining communities in a vast Northern Ontario region, north-west of Port Arthur.

A native of Chicago, Doremus has been writing for radio for 25 years. He worked for about eleven years in New York City, until in 1940 he decided to bury himself in the "bush" north of Sioux Lookout, Ont.

"It was a tough racket until I got used to it," Doremus recalled while visiting the Daily Press office yesterday. "I was a greenhorn from the big city. I would ask the natives for advice, but they just didn't pay any attention to me. After I toughed it out for a year, they volunteered to help me. I guess they were putting me to the test to see whether I could make my way in the north country."

Doremus said he found it hard making a go of it in the "bush" for the first couple years, because he was obliged to spend 90 per cent of his time cutting firewood and doing other manual labor to assure his subsistence. He couldn't hire anybody to do the odd jobs around his camp, so that he could devote more time to his writing. Eventually, the manual labor became easier for him, and he was able to devote more time to writing for both the American and Canadian radio and MacLean's magazine, published in Toronto.

He returned to Chicago to write a book about the "bush" country, and this spring decided to get away from the city. He selected Escanaba from a list of spots recommended by the Michigan Tourist Bureau in Chicago.

Doremus did the radio adaptation of Hartzell Spence's "One of 400 donors. Blood donated by individuals or members of organizations will be processed in Lower Michigan by the State health department and then placed in refrigeration for emergency use.

Blood plasma was used throughout the war for casualty cases and without it authorities agree that many more lives would have been lost, if it weren't for the life-giving blood derivatives. Severe burn cases, accident victims and patients in shock are administered blood or plasma.

Vote on Tuesday!

ALTHOUGH seven candidates are seeking the Republican nomination and two more are campaigning for the Democratic, the special primary election, which will be held Tuesday to select nominees for the office made vacant by the untimely death of Rep. Fred Bradley, has aroused only casual interest.

Candidates have been criss-crossing the 11th congressional district, which comprises seven counties in the Upper Peninsula and nine in the Lower Peninsula, but they have been confining their campaign efforts mostly to calling on party leaders, the newspaper offices and radio stations. With the election coming in mid-summer, the possibilities for attracting an audience to a political rally have been regarded as slim.

Nevertheless, Tuesday's primary election is an important one. The candidate who wins the Republican nomination is certain to be elected to Congress in the final election in August. The 11th Michigan district has been Republican for a long time, and it is even more so now. There will be many important issues to be disposed of in this postwar era, and much depends upon sending able men to the national legislature from all parts of the United States.

A heavy vote is the best assurance that the best choice will be made on election day. So even though the campaign has not been enlivened with hot political speeches, every citizen should perform his duty as a true American by voting on Tuesday.

Prices Climb Again

COAL prices have risen from $1.70 to $2 per ton in Escanaba, a boost of about 13 per cent in one jump, and now everything made of steel, from hairpins to automobiles, will be similarly affected by a price increase in steel products that will average about 10 per cent. This is the penalty that the public will pay for the new coal wage contract, even though the actual increased cost of coal production under the new contract constitutes only about half or less of the total retail price boost.

The coal price increase which went into effect in Escanaba last Monday includes not only coal produced under the new coal wage contract, but also stockpiles already on hand which were mined at the previous rate. The coal industry defends this policy by pointing out that since they have to stand the loss on its inventory when coal prices drop they must also take the profits on stocks on hand when prices increase as an offsetting factor. Whether justified or not, the way the situation stands and in this case, at least, the public is the loser.

In the fact of rising prices and higher cost of living, organized labor already is showing restless signs of developing a new campaign for a third round of wage increases. Two major CIO unions, the Textile Workers and the United Rubber Workers, already have reopened 1947 contract negotiations for further wage boosts.

If there is anything that our experiences in the past two years have taught us, it is that it is not possible to beat high prices with wage boosts alone. That only serves to widen the breach because prices always climb faster than wages. The coal wage-price situation proves it again. The cost of producing coal goes up about 75c or so a ton and the retail price of coal jumps $2. The only wage increases that are really beneficial to workers and to the nation are those that are based upon increased production. Such increases do not have an inflationary effect upon prices.

GI Benefits Restricted

LEGISLATION adopted by congress Friday and signed by President Truman bars new army and navy recruits from benefits of the GI bills of rights. It was inevitable that these benefits would be discontinued in the session of congress just concluded as the GI benefit bill was passed as a wartime measure. Nevertheless, the existence of the benefits to recruits into the armed services since the termination of the war has been a powerful factor in stimulating enlistments.

Now that these benefits are no longer attainable to young men entering the armed service, the effect upon volunteer enlistments into the army and navy will be watched by the American people with keen interest. The response of American manhood to the nation's military needs will be a major factor in the decision when congress reconvenes next January whether a universal military training law will be enacted.

Unless the armed forces continue to meet their manpower requirements by voluntary action, it is certain that military service by compulsion will result. In fact, there is a substantial percentage of American people and potent organizations who believe that universal military training is essential to American defense, whether voluntary enlistments are sufficient to meet our immediate military obligations or not. The house armed services committee voted unanimously Friday to put the bill for universal training as one of the first items of business when congress reconvenes next year.

If there is any hope at all to avoid compulsory training it must come by continuance of adequate voluntary recruits for the regular army, National Guard and military reserve forces.

They're Not So Slow

A MODEL town to house 800 families, with 40 per cent of the space given to parks, schools, clinics, clubs, sports fields and markets, is soon to rise on the outskirts of Medellin, Colombia, South America, in a setting of great natural beauty, and on land which has been chosen for productivity.

The project is being developed by co-operative societies. Each plot of land will be the same size, but three grades of houses will be built, according to the amounts purchasers wish to invest. The plan has the cordial approval of the Colombian authorities.

One reason this particular site was chosen is that near at hand is a type of soil from which bricks and tile can be cheaply made. Other materials for construction are available near by, and the climate is healthful and pleasant. All in all, low costs are expected to be a central feature of the enterprise. Cultural activities will be developed on an ample scale, and the whole scheme is designed to demonstrate to the people of Colombia and neighboring nations the advantages of co-operation on a large scale.

Colombia, Brazil and several other South American countries are making strong bids for the right kind of immigrants from Europe. Brazil alone, larger than the United States, with an area of three-and-one-quarter million square miles and a population of less than 50 millions, is bidding for up to 50,000 skilled trade and professional men a month. A large part of the European population, especially the Italians, wants to go there with the least possible delay. There is no doubt that they will be infinitely better off in Brazil, or even the Argentine or Peru or Colombia, than they will be if they remain in the cockpit of Europe.

South America needs more skilled white blood. Well over 50 millions of that continent's population are illiterate. Indians who have only partially given up the paganism of centuries. But the above activities of the Colombians indicate that the land to the southward has some real progressive elements who are resolved to show the world that they, too, are in the vanguard of civilization.

CARNIVALS KNOW THE LAW (Ironwood Globe)

Another in the series of carnivals which has plagued the range this year has departed, but others may be expected to follow before the season comes to an end.

Like every other carnival, the last one came in fully prepared to operate gambling rackets wide open until county law enforcement officials issued the order, "No gambling."

The order kept the most flagrant games from being operated—presumably at least while any officers were in sight. It did not, however, stop the ordinary games which seemingly get around the law by offering a prize with every chance. Actually, such prizes are nothing but a subterfuge for evasion of the law for they have little actual value. The customers (carnival men call them "suckers") play for the bigger prizes dangled before them as bait and it should not be too difficult to prove that all carnival games are actually games of chance and therefore illegal under Michigan law.

When a carnival appeared here a little earlier in the season, it has been learned since, an order was issued by the prosecuting attorney and the Ironwood police that gambling would not be permitted. This edict was issued after the carnival reportedly opened ahead of its scheduled contract date and ran "wide open" one night. As a result of the order issued by the authorities, nearly a score of concessions were reported closed.

Actually, it should not be necessary for the prosecuting attorney, sheriff, or city police to issue orders against gambling or indecent shows even though they are acting to protect the public when they do so. Carnivals are well informed about the laws wherever they operate. When they are found operating gambling rackets or engaged in any other illegal activities the operators should be arrested and prosecuted. When carnivals operate gambling rackets, openly or by subterfuge, they are expressing contempt for and defiance of the law.

Answer: That was once the case, for beauty entered English from the French beaute, from the Latin bellus, "pretty." But in modern usage that is beautiful which excites aesthetic pleasure, or which is delightful to the senses or emotions. Thus, music may be beautiful; a person may have a beautiful character; a flower may have a beautiful fragrance.

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—One of my secret agents has come across a document of such interest and importance that it is reproduced here. It is a dispatch from the ambassador of Inner Utopia to his foreign minister.

With remarkable frankness, the ambassador, who has only recently come to notice. This was the visit of the president to the senate, which is the upper chamber of their congress.

"It seems that never before in the history of the United States has it occurred that a president should sit on the floor of the senate, the present chief executive being a former member of that body. This will, of course, impress you as very strange. In our own parliament, the prime minister is on the floor each week, taking part in the debates.

"But, as I have tried to convey to your excellency from time to time, it is different here. I am gradually coming to learn the curious relationship—or lack of relationship—between the legislative branch of the government and the executive. They are engaged, if I may put it so, in a kind of warfare.

"This comes about because the chief executive is a member of one party, the Democrats, and the majority in the legislature are members of the other party, the Republicans. It is extraordinary that this could occur but it is the fact and, unhappily, this same division will prevail next year, too, since not until November of 1948 do the American people elect a new president.

"I have come to realize, excellency, that is the explanation for much that otherwise I have been unable to understand. A request from the executive is almost always ignored by the legislature, and the executive has repeatedly, as I have said in earlier dispatches, rejected the acts of the parliament.

"You have several times inquired, excellency, about the information program conducted by the department of state. You have expressed a wonder that so rich and great a country as the United States should be restricting this elementary program at a time when the propaganda of the Soviet Union continues to be ever more pervasive and insistent. I have your telegram of 20th July informing me that the libraries maintained in Inner Utopia by the United States information service are now to be closed and expressing your profound regret that this should be so.

"I have in turn conveyed this regret to the department of state. But I am coming to understand that the fault does not lie with the department of state. It derives apparently from the suspicion in congress of the agents of the executive branch of the government who are carrying out the information program.

"This is a most extraordinary condition, excellency, and the following I shall have to ask you to believe, even though I know it sounds scarcely rational. The party in control of the legislature has deprived the executive of $20,000,000 requested to pay tax collectors. These tax collectors, it seems quite clear, would be able to bring into the treasury at least $400,000,000 by their efforts. Thus the treasury is deprived of this very considerable revenue for reasons that must be related to partisan rivalry, between the two parties in the two branches of the government.

"I have recently read a book called 'Twentieth Century Congress' written by a member of the lower house, the Hon. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. This proposes, among other things, that the executive send permanent ambassadors to the congress who would have their offices in the Capitol and meet with a policy-making committee of legislators. I shall send you a copy of this book, as it may help you to understand the dilemma of the government in Washington.

"The American people have so many qualities of greatness—their capacity to organize industry, their energy, their good will. Yet they submit to the handicap of a divided government. I beg to remain, yours, etc."

St. Paul: What is meant by "metier," and how do you say it?—N. P.

A. The word is a French loan word. Metier is a calling or profession for which one has an especial talent. The pronunciation is: may-TYAY.

Milwaukee: My voice teacher insists that I pronounce the word hypocrite as "HIGH-poe-krit." I simply won't do it unless you say it's right.—D. M.

A. "HIGH-poe-krit" is incorrect. The first syllable is exactly like "hip," thus HIP-oh-krit; or HIP-uh-krit. The word is from the Greek hypokrites, "one who plays a part on the stage"; hence, a pretender, a feigner.

New Haven: In studying mythology we learned about Charon who ferried the souls across the Styx. Teacher pronounced it "CHAIR-un." But some of us think that is wrong.—B. M.

A. The accepted pronunciation begins with a "k" sound, thus: KAY-run; also KAIR-un

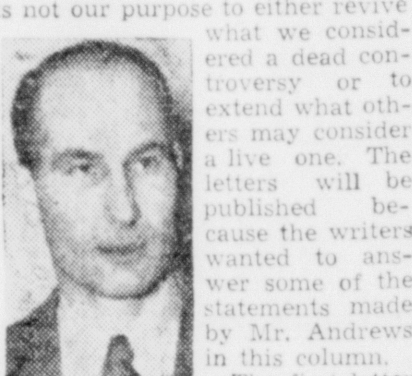

Sour Notes

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

COMMENTS—Today this column presents three letters received following publication of a letter from Jim Andrews of Escanaba. It is not our purpose to either revive what we considered a dead controversy or to extend what others may consider a live one. The letters will be published because the writers wanted to answer some of the statements made by Mr. Andrews in this column.

The first letter is from Ray LaPorte of the Solar Furniture Manufacturing company in Escanaba.

"In your column this morning (July 23) there appeared a statement (by Mr. Andrews) to the effect that our factory, the Solar Furniture Manufacturing company was responsible at least in part for the pall of smoke which hangs over our city. The author of such a statement errs grossly in making it, since we are now and always have been users of city steam. In fact we do not have a boiler, furnace or reasonable facsimile of any heating device in our plant at all.

"Several of our employees have already offered to give up smoking in the rooms assigned for that purpose rather than have us blamed as being perpetrators of a smoke nuisance. We have assured them, however, that this will not be necessary.

Sincerely yours,

Ray LaPorte.

FROM AN EMPLOYEE—Ernest E. Pratt, an employee of the Solar Furniture Manufacturing company, writes in reply to the Jim Andrews' letter:

"I have been working there nearly two years and have failed to locate a smoke stack or a boiler. All the sawdust and trimmings are hauled away. All the heat comes from the city steam plant and the power is from the electric plant.

"The only smoke I have seen in the plant is cigarette smoke. We have a room to smoke in and when we get to talking politics or telling about the big one that got away the smoke gets quite thick but I doubt if it bothers anyone but Jim."

ON FARMING—The third letter is from Werner J. Vietzke of Rapid River Rt. 1, who writes:

"Mr. Andrews is completely wrong about the farmer being a price-hog.

"At long last the American farmer is beginning to get his due rewards for his labors. Our last depression was produced by failure to properly evaluate our farmers. The farmer's dollar was thoroughly inflated in the 1920's and 1930's and it was not until the 1929 crash that the economists realized that a portion of our population had almost continuously been beset by low purchasing power in its dollar.

"Farming is a long-term business venture. The average working man goes to work and draws his pay in two weeks. He seldom furnishes the tools he works with. His pay depends upon his acquired skill and experience. What he earns he spends on his home, his family and then too, his car."

ITS PROBLEMS—"The farmer does not get paid for his work in two weeks," Vietzke continues. "His is the plight of the business man. The farmer with 100 acres or less spends more for machinery in 10 years than the laborer spends on his home. His machinery is continually wearing out. Five thousand dollars will not equip the average farm with machinery. Many farmers have spent $15,000 on equipment without being large farmers.

"Then too, farming requires skill and knowledge of the subject. Puttering around on a small farm and then working out seems better classified as gardening. A full-time farmer must know his soils. One acre may require an entirely different kind of soil management than any of his other acres. Problems are not the same and cannot be dealt with in the same way in all cases.

"Farming requires patience, study and a scientific approach. Ability to make decisions and carry them out is all in the make-up of a good farmer. He must be intelligent, versatile and administrative. The day of the ignorant farmer is past, for farming has become a highly competitive and exacting science, capable of meeting and overcoming the obstacles of adverse weather and fluctuating prices."

NOT ALL WAGES—"Then too, a farmer wants to live," Vietzke points out. "His $5,000 income, for instance, is not his pay. After he has paid his operating expenses his net may be his income, part of which he spends on his home. Like any business man a farmer must have his operating capital. He must have a system of accounting and cost finding. He must set aside losses each year to take off dead losses and future emergencies. Unfortunately, there are still people who think that when a farmer gets a sum of money he is that much richer."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Yesterday, in New York, I had the privilege of helping dedicate a veterans hospital swimming pool in memory of the four army chaplains of different faiths who, when their transport was torpedoed, gave their lives to save the lives of the others.

One was Father John P. Washington of Newark, N. J., a Catholic. One was Rabbi Alexander Goode of York, Pa., a Jew. The two others were George L. Fox of Cambridge, Vt., and Clark V. Poling of Schenectady, N. Y., both Protestants.

Praying together, hand in hand, they went to a common grave because they had a common cause—to make a world where men may live together side by side in peace, no matter what their race or creed.

So yesterday, in New York, the Bronx Veterans Hospital swimming pool was dedicated to their memories, a place where veterans of all races and creeds may meet and mingle, as free from prejudice as the water which flows.

To me this was a new type of war memorial. Ordinarily, when we think of the aftermath of war we think of the dead, the disabled, the ruined cities, the broken treaties. We seldom think of the history books on war or the war memorials. But they shape our thinking, too. History is more than words, and monuments are more than shapes in stone and bronze. They also shape our minds. If we ask a small boy about the Civil War, he will probably tell of a cannon in the town square or a picture of a general on horseback.

But what the little boys of tomorrow must be taught about the world war finished yesterday is the principles for which that war was fought, not the weapons used to achieve the victory.

Too many battles of the past have been commemorated by statues of fierce warriors in bronze or bristling cannons in the parks of the nation—grim reminders of the glamor, the excitement of battle. But what we need to be reminded of is not the weapons of war, but the principles for which men gave their lives in war.

And what the little boys of tomorrow must be taught about the world war finished today is that it started because the Fascists preached the doctrine of the superior race; and that it was won by those who believe that all men are created free and equal.

That's what the four chaplains believed when they gave up their lives to face certain death on the transport Dorchester.

At no time during the war did death show discrimination among our soldiers, sailors, fliers or marines. When the blow struck it did not discriminate as to creed or color. When the Japanese-Americans of the heroic 442nd regiment stormed their way up the hillsides of the North Apennines in Italy no one stopped in the heat of battle to think about the color of their skin.

Today, with the heat of battle over, some of us sometimes forget the bonds of selflessness which forged heroes during war. Moreover, a few rabble-rousers have made vicious attacks on some groups—forgetting that every man, no matter what his color or creed, is a human being, and no one has a right to wound him by stinging words or thoughtless acts.

That's why the type of memorial dedicated at the Bronx veterans hospital seems to me important—a memorial commemorating the thing the four chaplains wanted remembered—that the deck of a sinking ship is not the only place where men of different faiths can work together, pray together, and now that the war is over, live together.

NOTE—One of the chaplains who died on the transport Dorchester was the son of Rev. Dan Poling, famed Baptist preacher of Temple University, Philadelphia, who, like his son Clark, was also a chaplain during the war. En route to Africa, Dr. Poling stopped in Natal, Brazil, where he asked his friend, Rev. Sam Overstreet, a Baptist chaplain, to join him at dinner. Overstreet, however, declined. That evening he had to take the place of Father John Francis Ryan, a Catholic, who was scheduled to conduct Jewish services, but had to be away.

Because no Jewish chaplain was regularly stationed at Natal, the Protestant and Catholic chaplains had arranged to take regular turns conducting services for Jewish troops; so, on this particular evening, a Baptist gave the Jewish services for a Catholic priest.

Impressed with the way men and chaplains of all religions worked together during the war, Dr. Poling later raised a fund in Philadelphia to build a "chapel of the four chaplains" where men of all religious creeds could worship and pray together.

During the fervor of war what was believed to be sufficient money was raised to build this chapel. But after the war, building costs went up. Also, the ardor of some of Dr. Poling's church friends cooled. One or two even raised their eyebrows at the idea of holding services for all religious faiths together.

However, I am glad to report that Dr. Poling has gone ahead and is still raising money to commemorate the idea for which his son and the three other chaplains died—that it takes the wounds of black and white, the lives of Catholic, Protestant and Jew to win a war and make democracy live.

Q. Is the information contained in the "Report of the President's Advisory Commission on Universal Military Training" encouraging with respect to the nation's health?

A. No. It revealed that the U. S. stands seventh in infant mortality rates; is somewhere between eighth and eleventh in childhood and adolescent death rates; is thirteenth for death rate after 60. Concerning infant mortality the report stated: "In 1944 there was one state in which only 30.5 babies out of each 1000 born alive failed to live out their first year of life; in the state at the other end of the range, relatively three times as many died—89.1 in each 1000."

Q. Is the Talmud a code of law? A. The Talmud is the code of Jewish civil and canonical law. It is composed of the Mishna and the Gemara or the reasons thereof. The Mishna was compiled in A. D. 180 by Jehuda, the Saint. There are two Gemaras: that of Jerusalem, completed in A. D. 400; and that of Babylon, completed a century later and four times the size of the former commentary.

Is it true that the Parent Teachers Association and other groups are canning for lunches for school children?

A. In several counties in Ohio, a county institution, as a county home, provides equipment, cans and food from its farm and the PTA does the canning. They split the canned food, half to the institution and half for the lunches. Foods canned and boxed are labeled for each school and are temporarily stored at the county home.

farmers, just as there are good and bad in other professions and callings," Vietzke continues. "The good business man does not trust to luck. Many farmers are good business men and succeed in other lines than farming. Many carry on side business that are successful.

"A good manager on a poor farm can work wonders and a poor manager on a good farm can be a failure.

"Farming as a profession is honorable and not to be despised. Few professions, in war and in peace, in the past and at present, have rendered more in service and point of value to this nation and the world for fair remuneration or less than has the American farmer."

Werner J. Vietzke.

'OXFORD GROUP' ON U. P. TOUR

Moral Re-Armament Program Explained By Visitor

America has reached the point where it must prove that democracy can work, or else fall victim to the various radical and reactionary ideologies that are now sweeping other parts of the world.

This was the view expounded by Mrs. Katharine Miller of Toronto and Mackinac Island, who visited in Escanaba yesterday while on tour of the Upper Peninsula with a "task force" of the Moral Re-Armament movement, which has its summer training center at the Island House on the Fairy Isle at the Straits. She was accompanied by Ed MacRae, 21-year-old veteran of the Canadian army, who hails from Randolph, Vt., and three other members of the so-called Oxford or Buchmanite group.

"Moral Re-Armament has assumed its share of the responsibility of trying to make democracy effective in America and throughout the world," Mrs. Miller said. "We believe the best place to start is in the family home and in industry. We are working with labor and management to help them find a common meeting ground."

Each summer, during the past several years, persons interested in Moral Re-Armament, numbering upwards of 3,000, visit the training center on Mackinac Island, where the group has taken over the old Island House, Bennett Hall and Murray hotel as summer headquarters. Visitors have come from all parts of the world, and during World War II the island training center entered tained its world leader and founder, Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman. Another distinguished visitor a couple a summers ago was Peter Howard, London newspaper political observer and columnist, and author of the book, "Ideas Have Legs."

Incidentally, the Moral Re-Armament group on Mackinac Island have adapted "Ideas Have Legs" to a new type of musical revue, which a cast of about 150 presented with outstanding success in Detroit, Lansing and Grand Rapids last year. The revue will be presented again next Friday and Saturday nights at the well known Bay View Chautauque Assembly near Petoskey.

William Marsh Hurt In Fall From Roof

William Cody Marsh of Gladstone was injured Saturday when he slipped and fell from the roof of the house being built by Ben Desilets at South 23rd street.

Extent of injury had not been determined by the physician last night. Marsh was reported resting satisfactorily at the hospital and his doctor stated that Marsh was not too seriously wounded. Possibility of fractures was checked by x-ray.

Marsh was taken to St. Francis hospital by ambulance.

Victim Of Milwaukee Robbery Is Sister Of Local Resident

A "customer" drinking at the bar suddenly turned holdup man yesterday afternoon and got away with $2,100 at the March Inn, a tavern in Milwaukee.

In leaving he ordered four patrons into the backroom at pistol point, threatening to "blow somebody's head off."

Then he walked out unhurriedly with a fishing tackle box containing the money under his arm and disappeared.

Sits Over An Hour

The tavern is operated by Charles Stone and his wife, Angeline. Mrs. Stone is the former Angeline Quess of Menominee and is a sister of Mrs. Charles Winchester, 1004 Second avenue south. Three weeks ago she visited in the vicinity for ten days. She was behind the bar as Stone was away. The tavern cashes pay checks Fridays for workers of factories nearby.

Mrs. Stone kept the tackle box with the money in the kitchen in the rear of the tavern. The hold-up man came into the place about 2:30 p. m. and sat around for more than an hour, drinking wine. He observed that when patrons came in with checks Mrs. Stone went to the kitchen and emerged with the money.

About 3:40 p. m. he followed her into the kitchen, drew a .32 caliber automatic pistol and ordered Mrs. Stone to give him the money. She handed over the box and he left through the barroom.

To the four customers at the bar he said:

"Get in the back room or I'll blow somebody's head off."

Wore Green Suit

The bandit was wearing a costume that should certainly attract attention. He was dressed in a green pencil stripe suit, open colored blue shirt, gray fedora hat, dark glasses over his regular glasses, wore an army discharge button, and was 25 to 30 years old, about 6 feet tall, weighing 175 pounds, light complexion.

Iver J. Barber Appointed Agent Of C&NW Railway

Announcement has been made of the appointment of Iver J. Barber of Escanaba as agent of the Chicago and North Western railway here, succeeding Roger J. Moras, who has returned to train dispatching.

Barber entered the employment of the C&NW as a train caller at Iron Mountain June 23, 1915, was promoted to telegraph operator in November, 1916; and was appointed clerk in the freight office at Menominee in 1923. He was promoted to freight office cashier at Escanaba June 13, 1941.

Moras was previously employed as train dispatcher before his appointment to succeed C. R. Henderson upon his retirement. He chose to return to dispatcher duty when a vacancy occurred following the retirement on July 1 of Frank Loos, chief dispatcher. M. J. Tonkin was named to succeed Loos as chief dispatcher.

STUDY ALASKA FOR NEWSPRINT

Special Committee Of
U. S. Senate Will Make Junket

Washington, ((S.S.)) — Alaskan forests as a source of woodpulp for newsprint for American papers are to be investigated by a special committee of the United States Senate sometime in August.

The shortage of newsprint is a worry to every editor. No decrease in consumption is expected in the foreseeable future, and foreign nations will need more when they resume normal functions.

It sounds like a long haul to get newsprint from Alaska, but the principal forests of this territory are located on the seaboard in the narrow section west of British Columbia and the southern part of the main body of Alaska. Much of the forest area is included in two national forests under the supervision of the U. S. Forest Service.

Tongass National Forest, containing over 16,000,000 acres, is largely along the narrow coastal area between the Pacific ocean and British Columbia. Chugach National Forest, of 4,800,000 acres, is along the shores of Prince William Sound, about half-way between Anchorage and the Canadian line. In addition to these, there are some 80,000,000 acres of forests well scattered in southern areas.

The two national forests together contain an estimated 85,000,000,000 board feet of timber, 75 per cent of which is within three miles of tidewater. Nearly three-fourths of the timber is Western hemlock, chiefly valuable for the manufacture of pulp and paper. Approximately 20 per cent

Frances Spokes of Sault Ste. Marie is spending her summer vacation with her grandmother Mrs. H. Marhofer.

The birds that come north earliest in spring usually are the last to return south in autumn.

is Sitka spruce, now used in airplane construction and other applications, but valuable also as pulp. The remainder is largely cedar.

The Tongass National Forest alone, scientifically handled, could supply 3,500 tons of newsprint a day forever, Frank Heintzleman, U. S. Regional Forester of Alaska, recently said at a Congressional hearing. Alaska has water power available for development which can supply all the power needs of pulp mills to process the timber. Ocean shipping to West Coast ports is open the year around. The center of the Tongass forest is only about 1,000 miles from Seattle.

Education Course To Be Given Here

LIGHTNING HIT CHANCES LOW

Only One In 365,000 Is Ever Struck By Bolt

Pittsburgh, Pa. (SS).—Your chances of being struck by lightning this summer are one in 365,000. Some 400 persons will probably be killed during the year in the United States. It is a small number, however, when compared with the probable 40,000 who will suffer death from automobile accidents.

The estimate is that of E. L. Harder, Westinghouse lightning engineer, whose primary job is the development of instruments and devices to protect homes, factories and electric power lines from lightning damage. As an example of accomplishments, modern protective devices now cut power interruptions on power lines almost to the vanishing point, although every 50 miles of such lines are hit some 50 times every year.

He explained a Westinghouse "trap" that virtually picks lightning from the sky, shuttles it about, and makes it take its own picture on an automatic camera. It makes "fingerprints" on highspeed and low-speed wheels within the instrument, which is called a "ful-chronograph," making records, which along with the photographs, can be studied at leisure.

These "traps" are exposed in elevated positions, one being 535 feet from the ground on the roof of the University of Pittsburgh's Cathedral of Learning. Here lightning strikes a steel mast from which it is channeled through various protective devices to test their efficiency.

Information gathered over a period of years has catalogued thunderbolts so thoroughly that engineers can forecast with reasonable accuracy when and where they will strike on the average, and what their force will be. It is on the basis of this knowledge that the probability of death from lightning is estimated.

Training Courses For Girl Scout Leaders Planned

Plans for a Girl Scout leadership training course and a council training school in the Upper Peninsula were made at a recent meeting of Girl Scout commissioners and the training chairman of the ten Northern Michigan communities active in Scouting, held at the House of Ludington.

Miss Florence Otto, regional director, Miss Lucille Cannon, assistant director, and Miss Sally Stickney, executive director of the field division, all of New York, attended the conference here to work with the group.

The training courses are being planned to facilitate program and service activities for the 3,200 Girl Scouts registered in the Upper Peninsula.

Regional Group Makes Plans For Scout Activities

The executive committee of Region 7 of the Girl Scouts, at a meeting Thursday and Friday at the House of Ludington, made plans for the Great Lakes region for 1947-48. The committee is comprised of women representing the four states in the region, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin.

At present there are 217,000 registered Girl Scouts in this region who are participating in the troop and camping programs offered by the organization. Mrs. H. K. Jackson of Chicago is regional chairman.

This is a volunteer group and plans its work with the regional professional staff members who also attended the meeting.

Six Indians Sent For VD Treatment

Menominee, Mich.—Six Indians of the Hannahville reservation in Harris township were sent to Ann Arbor for treatment for venereal diseases on orders of Probate Judge Katherine Stiles Laughton, this week in approving petition for such order by Dr. W. A. Harrison, new director of the Delta-Menominee Health Department.

Under a law passed in 1942 the probate judge may order such treatment for persons afflicted with venereal diseases and the county bears the transportation and hospitalization expense. However, in issuing the order Judge Laughton included a provision that the six Indians repay the county at $5 a month upon their return.

The Indians, four women and two men, ranging in ages from 22 to 37, will take treatment at the rapid treatment center in Ann Arbor. Hospitalization takes about 14 days and after their return home each is required to report at the health department for examination once a month for one year.

Stories Of Michigan

The Birth Of The Upper Peninsula

By A. F. KELLEY

The long, ornate room was filled with fashionably-dressed men, whose powdered wigs left dust here and there, and whose flowing, lacy cuffs drooped over the polished table as they bent forward in eager concentration. Most of the men were emissaries of the English government, and they gave careful attention to the words of the speaker who was representing the United States of America. He was talking now, and his words were simple and direct, like his sturdy, brown breeches and plain hair—"The Revolutionary War is finally concluded, and our purpose today is to draw up the terms of peace."

Behind him, as he spoke, some of the listeners watched the busy street traffic of Paris, through the pane-glass windows decorated with expensive draperies.

"I have a map of the territory here," the speaker was saying, "and I will show you the bound-dary lines which our new country intends to have." He unrolled a large scroll which showed, as nearly as anyone knew, the outline of the continent called America.

As Benjamin Franklin went on pointing and speaking, his thoughts flashed to information which he had obtained on the previous day. While some of the English representatives moved closer, and scrutinized the exhibit, Mr. Franklin paused for breath, and in the pause, he remembered the actual papers which carried this information—the papers he had studied yesterday. They were the yellowed records left from the time when France had controlled the Great Lakes region in the north part of the continent. French engineers had explored the area, and their records showed large mineral deposits between Lake Michigan and Lake Superior.

One of the men bending over the map, straightened, and spoke to Franklin, tracing the northern boundary line with his finger as he commented, "Look at this—this little spot that looks like a mitten! It seems to me your northern line goes quite far above the logical boundary—why don't you cut it off at the top of the little glove instead of taking in that wide upper piece too? It makes an awkward boundary."

Franklin looked at the peninsula at which the agent was pointing. "It's only wilderness," another agent of the English government chimed in. "I think too, that it would be more logical to cut it off entirely, and proceed straight across—like this—"

"Gentlemen," Benjamin Franklin stated in a firm voice, "we

SCHOOLS MUST WAKE UP SOON

Babson Says Youngsters Receive Inadequate Training

BY ROGER W. BABSON
Gloucester, Mass.—With a possible 10,000,000 unemployed by 1952 unless labor relations get straightened out, both school and parents should begin now to make graduates worth employing. Certainly, there then will be keen competition for whatever jobs there may be. Young people now in high schools should make up their minds to put work before play and cut out the social stuff which is making too many of them useful only for driving trucks and jerking soda.

Simple Economics
Business expects the schools to equip our men and women with an adequate background of the historical, psychological and economic forces which have produced our nation. Our young people should also be given a background of the many "isms." With such a background students should understand the merits and benefits which our free society has to offer. However, the school cannot do much unless backed up by sensible table talk and religious instruction at home.

No nation can long prosper without the proper incentive, progress and efficiency. This causes a continuous improvement in the standard of living and security for all producers. When people produce more, business thrives, national income increases, standards of living rise, and our voters are happier. It is the understanding of these basic factors including some real religion, which our homes and schools should teach. These include emphasis on that simple economic fact that only as we all produce more is there more to divide.

Shortchanging Pupils
Schools today are shortchanging pupils. Youngsters are being shoved out into an ever increasingly competitive world with inadequate training in the fundamentals of reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, self-expression, etc. Too many of our young people knocking on the employment manager's door are unable to do relatively simple mathematical tasks. These are basic tools of work, rather than the useless frills which schools now teach.

It is not the accumulation of vast amounts of factual material that makes a young person employable. Rather it is his character, his health, his desire to be of service and his ability to work with others. Schools are shortchanging students by their failure to teach how to work and live, how to get and hold good jobs. Schools should spend much more time in both group and individual counseling to help students better understand themselves, their interests and their aptitudes.

Shortchanging Vocationally
With 29,744 different jobs listed in the Dictionary of Occupational Titles, schools of this Atomic Age should offer systematic courses in vocational information, get their students out on field trips, make greater use of occupational film, part-time job experiences, etc. Most important of all young people should be taught the dignity of working and the disgrace of loafing.

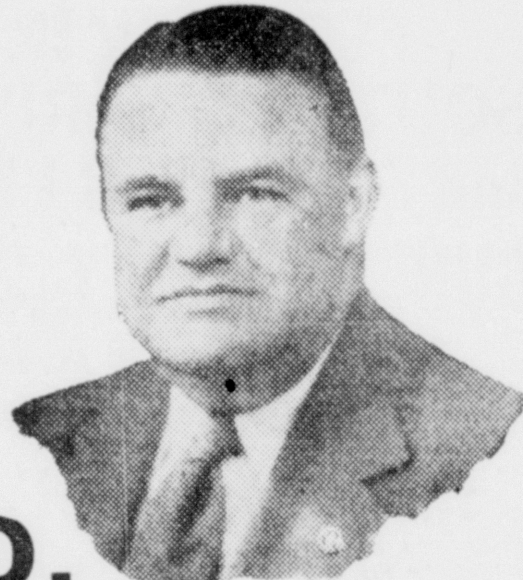

To teachers, I say: "Get to know your student more than from just grades." Prepare him for job interviews. Make sure a student understands his own balance sheet of assets and liabilities. Teach him how to sell himself on the interview. Schools should have students realize that personal qualifications such as incentive, resourcefulness, adaptability, and willingness to assume responsibility are more important than joining a union to assure success.

Parents Should Wake Up
But the best training of all for getting a good position after graduation is to work summers. Whether or not your boy and girl does this is up to you—and not to

Parasite Fighters Carried In Belly Of Mammoth B-36

BY JAMES J. STREIBIG
Associated Press Aviation Reporter

Washington (AP)—The first jet-propelled "parasitic" fighter in history, designed to be carried in the belly of the mammoth B-36 army bomber, is expected to make its initial flight in September.

The little bomber escort, known as the XP-85, is being built by the McDonnell Aircraft Corporation of St. Louis, which has produced two jet fighter types for the navy. Details of the new plane are classified as secret by the army air force.

Persons familiar with the tiny craft give this general description:

Its wingspan is around 20 feet and length about 15 feet, giving it the appearance of a bee. Gross weight is between 3,000 and 4,000 pounds. The engine is a small but powerful Westinghouse turbojet, probably a 19-inch model, with a thrust of 1,500 pounds.

The wings fold, as on carrier-based navy fighters, to permit the plane to be hauled into the bomber's belly. The plane has no landing gear. It is taken aboard the bomber, launched in flight when the mother ship is in danger of air attack, and taken back aboard by catching a hook swinging beneath the big plane.

Rust stains in woolen material are not easy to remove, because wool has a pronounced affinity for several metals, including iron. It often helps to remove difficult stains if a little sodium sulphite is added to the cleaning solution for it makes the iron particles more soluble.

Comintern 'Dissolution' Signers Rule In Europe

By SHERRY BOWEN

AP Newsfeatures Writer

When the Comintern, world agency for spreading Communism, was "dissolved" May 22, 1943, 17 people signed the document. Now seven of these men and women head dominant or important Communist parties in seven countries on the European continent.

The seven are Georgi Dimitrov, Bulgaria; Anna Pauker, Romania; Matyas Rakosi, Hungary; Klement Gottwald, Czechoslovakia; Maurice Thorez, France; Palmiro Togliatti, Italy, and Wilhelm Pieck, Germany.

Additional Communist power in Europe is represented by Poland under Boleslaw Bierut and Yugoslavia under Marshal Tito. Nicholas Zachariades of Greece has led the Communists there to such power that the United States has sent substantial aid to prevent "minority aggression."

Secrecy Rules

Traditional Russian secrecy prevents exact knowledge of who bosses what in Communist circles. But records of actions indicate that Jacques Duclos of France, credited with being the journalist who transmits policy to Communists all over the world, and Tsola Dragoecheva, the woman who ruled Bulgaria for several months before the arrival of Dimitrov, should be added to a list of leading European Communists.

That makes 12 people in 10 countries who can be credited with having a vital part in the extension of Russian influence in Europe since World War II.

Russian Residences

All, with the possible exception of Duclos, are reported to have spent long residences in Russia. At least two, Rakosi and Dimitrov, are or were Russian citizens. Tito has had long service with the Red Army and Bierut has served as a Russian official.

At least four, Tito, Zachariades, Dimitrov and Pauker, have been trained in Russian schools for revolution. The others have demonstrated mastery of revolutionary principles and practices.

Here is the record for the 12 so far as it emerges from behind the iron curtain:

YUGOSLAVIA

Marshal Tito (Josip Broz)

Born in 1892, Tito, now boss of Yugoslavia, was drafted into the Austrian Army in World War I. He deserted or was taken prisoner, later joined the Red Army, fighting in Russian civil wars and married a Russian woman. Trained in Russian revolutionary schools he returned to Yugoslavia as a labor organizer.

Tito was imprisoned at one time and at others was hunted by the police. He emerged as the leader of a Yugoslav resistance movement in World War II—rival of Draga Mihailovic, who was executed after Tito came to power.

BULGARIA

Georgi Dimitrov

Now boss of Bulgaria, Georgi Dimitrov returned to his native land in 1944 after 22 years in exile. He headed the Comintern, world agency for spreading Communism until its dissolution in 1943.

He was arrested in Romania on espionage charges in the early '20s and was released after Russian intervention in his behalf. He led the abortive Bulgarian revolution in 1923. In 1934 he was one of the principal defendants in the Nazi Reichstag fire trial. But the Hitlerites found him "too hot to handle." Freed, he returned to Russia in a plane sent by the Soviet government, became a hero of Russia and a citizen of that country. (He renounced Russian citizenship on his return to Bulgaria.)

In 1933 he said, "I am a soldier of the revolution and will fight where duty sends me."

Tsola Dragoecheva

When the Red Army entered Bulgaria in 1944, Tsola Dragoecheva became absolute boss of Bulgaria until the arrival of Dimitrov several months later.

Born in 1900, she was an outstanding beauty in her youth. She was sentenced to death twice. Once she escaped execution by becoming pregnant and creating a mystery as to how she was that was accomplished while she was under close guard in the death cell.

Her supporters sometimes tell a dramatic story of how she returned from Moscow to run Bulgaria but she denies ever leaving Bulgaria.

POLAND

Boleslaw Bierut

Communist boss of Poland, his real name is said by his enemies to be Krasnodar.

POLAND

Boleslaw Bierut

Communist boss of Poland, his munists all over the world, and one of his articles sparked the deposition of Earl Browder as party head in America in 1945.

A pastry cook in his youth, he rose in the party to become secretary in France. Arrested in the 1939-40 reaction against Reds, he escaped, was again arrested and then released because of his World War I wounds. He was active in the French underground and reputedly in the Russian intelligence service in World War II.

GERMANY

Wilhelm Pieck

Although he lived in Russia to avoid Nazi persecution, Wilhelm Pieck, now 76 years old, declares that German Communism must develop along different lines from Russian Communism.

Considered the "grand old man of German Communism," he was known in his youth as a fire-breathing orator. He was arrested for anti-war propaganda in World War I and returned to Berlin with the Red Army in World War II.

ITALY

Palmiro Togliatti

Returning from Moscow in 1944 to take charge of the Communist party in Italy, Palmiro Togliatti is a journalist who writes under the name Ercolo Brogli and holds a Ph.D. degree. He was the Italian member of the Comintern until its "dissolution" in 1943. Since his return from Moscow he has held several important posts in the Italian cabinet.

Court Tosses Out Detroit Test Suit On School Aid Bill

Lansing, July 26 (AP)—The Detroit Board of Education's invalidation suit against the school aid act was tossed out of court today in a ruling which upheld the law's constitutionality.

Circuit Judge Louis E. Coash, dismissing the suit, held that the legislature was vested with "almost unlimited power" to create, consolidate, enlarge or reduce school districts as it deems needful.

The section of the act in question appropriated more than $6,500,000 to special education programs. The court upheld the constitutionality of a single school district erected to the act to allow deduction of the special appropriation from general school aid.

A declaratory judgment to force the legislature to distribute the $6,500,000 to school districts had been sought by the Detroit board. Judge Coash, however, held the judiciary was powerless to force actions on the legislature.

The plaintiff Detroit group had indicated earlier that any adverse verdict from Judge Coash would be appealed to the state supreme court. Joining with the Detroit board in the dismissed case were school boards of Grand Rapids, Jackson and other communities.

Georgia Man Who Made Millions In Coca Cola Is Dead

Columbus, Ga., July 26 (AP)—W. C. Bradley, who began life on an Alabama farm and amassed one of the south's greatest fortunes in cotton and Coca Cola died of a heart attack at his home here today at the age of 84.

Funeral services will be held at the residence tomorrow at 4 p.m. Bradley already had extensive textile and other interests when, in 1919 he and his life-long friend and former school mate, the late Ernest Woodruff, became the principals in the syndicate which purchased the Coca Cola Company from Asa G. Candler for $25,000,000. With their associates, Bradley and Woodruff made millions of dollars from this investment.

All Safe In Blast On Excursion Boat At Lake Geneva

Lake Geneva, Wis., July 26 (AP)—Thirty-five passengers were rescued from a blazing excursion boat today after an explosion rocked the vessel about a quarter mile off shore.

Richard Brugger, 23, captain and pilot of the "Majestic," was the only casualty. He suffered severe burns but aided in distributing life preservers while eight speed boats and a safety patrol vessel went to the rescue.

dent Truman for the bedside of his ailing mother at Grandview, Mo., did not interfere with the adjournment schedule.

Mr. Truman signed the bill for unifying the armed forces at the airport here just before he took off. Other bills passed in the closing stages may be sent to him in Missouri if his stay is prolonged. Any bills not signed by the president within 10 days after Congress adjourns automatically die.

One of the last major bills to be passed was a measure restoring government price support on domestic wool. The House completed congressional action on it by adopting the final conference version on the vote.

A big barrier to adjournment was removed in late afternoon when the Senate by voice vote accepted the compromise bill providing $960,000,000 to run the agriculture department for the year and sent it to the White House. The president had asked $1,188,571,833.

The measure provides $265,000,000 for soil conservation payments to farmers on this year's crops and $150,000,000 in 1948, plus $65,000,000 for the school lunch program. The House had voted originally to wipe out these payments.

Some Bitter Fights

Probably few sessions have been watched more closely by the people, for there were widespread predictions at the start that there would be a bitter battle between the White House and Capitol Hill. There were some bitter fights, but vital work was done.

The accomplishments from a Republican point of view were summed up by House GOP Leader Halleck of Indiana in these words: "We have restored to the people their confidence in the American form of government. We have fulfilled their hopes as expressed in the 1946 elections which put Republicans in control of Congress."

House Democratic Leader Rayburn of Texas didn't see it that way. He said that "instead of being a saving Congress, this has been an extravagant Congress. It has given too much money in some places and too little in others."

The GOP tax bill, he claimed, sought to give "the large income class too much and the small income group too little."

While dissension developed over some domestic issues, it was notably lacking on foreign matters.

Tax Cuts 1948 Issue

The Congress fought the president tooth-and-nail on tax and labor legislation. Twice it voted to cut income levies, once effective July 1, 1947, and once effective next January 1. Both times President Truman blocked it with vetoes and was sustained.

But Congress overrode his veto of the Taft-Hartley labor-management act and put it on the law books despite the president's protests.

Mr. Truman's action on the tax and labor bills brought charges of "politics" from Republicans and a decision to make the tax cut proposal a big issue in the 1948 presidential and congressional elections.

That was just one of the election issues for which the foundation was laid by the 80th Congress. Democrats are going to make an issue out of the Republican dictatorial front economic program—notably the rent control act permitting rent boosts of 15 per cent where tenants agree in return for a lease.

Some of them are going to make a campaign issue out of the Taft-Hartley act, which unions bitterly opposed.

Foreign Aid Voted

Rough as was the road on some domestic matters, the president encountered fairly smooth riding with his foreign program.

Congress put through his $400,000,000 program for aid to Greece and Turkey to stop the spread of Communism. It approved $332,000,000 of his request for $350,000,000 for relief to needy nations after the end of UNRRA.

But Congress didn't act on the president's request for legislation to standardize arms in the western hemisphere and set up a program of hemisphere military cooperation. It was laid aside for further study.

Congress turned a deaf ear, too, to his plea for permission for 400,000 war-displaced European refugees to enter the United States. That was shelved for the time being.

The Senate and House decided to take a close look at the executive branch of the government during adjournment. They passed, and the president approved, legislation creating a 12-member commission to study the entire government structure and recommend changes in the interest of economy and efficiency.

wartime controls and laws.

It voted to put the armed services under a single cabinet secretary, to allow holders of terminal leave pay bonds to cash them this year instead of waiting five years, designated the speaker of the House as successor to the president if vacancies occur in the offices of president and vice-president, submitted to the states a constitutional amendment to limit presidential tenure to two terms, restricted suits for postal-to-port pay in industry, froze the Social Security tax at one per cent to stop an increase scheduled for January 1, set up a national scientific foundation, continued the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Commodity Credit Corporation.

It laid aside for future consideration universal military training, minimum wage boosts, a government sponsored health insurance plan, a long-range housing program, broadening of Social Security coverage, a federal employee loyalty check program, and a bill to outlaw poll taxes as a voting prerequisite in federal elections.

The House passed the anti-poll tax bill and the federal employee loyalty measure but the Senate didn't get around to them.

The House armed services committee approved a universal military training bill at the president's request and left it high on the list of "unfinished business" for the election year 1948.

LEGISLATION RECORD

Washington, July 26 (AP)—The record of the first session of the 80th Congress on major legislation:

Domestic—It passed these bills: The Taft-Hartley labor-management act; the Presidential succession bill designating the speaker of the House as successor to the presidency if the president and the vice-president are unable to serve; the postal-to-port pay bill, limiting future and nullifying most past claims for postal-to-port pay; continuing wartime excise tax rates; freezing social security payroll taxes at one per cent; retaining the three-cent allowance on first class mail instead of allowing it to revert to two cents on July 1; establishing a National Science Foundation; restoring price support for wool; continuing the RFC and the Commodity Credit Corporation; for another year, continuing controls on industrial uses of sugar, on exports and imports of strategic materials, and on rents, with 15 per cent "voluntary" rent boosts allowed.

It deferred action on measures: Boosting the legal minimum wage from 40 to 60 cents an hour; outlawing the poll tax as a prerequisite to voting for federal offices; creating a health insurance program; setting up a long-range housing program; broadening social security coverage to many new groups covered; establishing a statutory program to check the loyalty of federal workers and job applicants.

International—It passed: Bills authorizing a $400,000,000 aid program for Greece and Turkey and a $332,000,000 relief program for needy nations; a measure for U. S. participation in the International Refugee Organization. The Senate ratified peace treaties with Italy, Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania.

It deferred action on: International arms standardization and cooperation; the St. Lawrence seaway; a bill giving legal status to the State department's "Voice of America" broadcasts of foreign countries, although it financed limited operation of the program; a bill to admit 400,000 displaced persons.

Military—It passed: The Armed Services unification bill; a measure allowing veterans to cash terminal leave pay bonds Sept. 1. It deferred action on universal military training.

In General—It cut appropriations deeper than in any recent year; passed the labor-management bill over a veto; twice failed to pass income tax reduction bills over a veto; and yielded to a veto on legislation to permit import quotas and fees on foreign wool.

Airliner Wrecked At Fire Airport; 36 Escape Injury

Shannon Airport, Eire, Sunday, July 27. (AP)—Twenty-six passengers and ten crew members escaped injury when a Trans-World Airlines Constellation plane overplanned a runway here and crashed into a ditch at midnight last night.

The plane was enroute from New York to Paris. There was considerable fog on the field at the time. It was badly wrecked, its right wing crumpled and its right engines buried in the ground.

TWA representatives here declined to make any statement on the cause of the accident.

Oldsmobile Of 1902 Wrecked In Mishap Enroute To Lansing

Fayetteville, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—A 1902 Oldsmobile, involved in an accident here yesterday, remained in a local garage tonight awaiting shipment to the home of its owner, William A. Worth, 76, of Petersburg, Va.

Worth was driving the relic to Lansing, Mich., where it was to be traded for a 1947 model when the crash occurred. He said he would repair it himself and attempt the trip again.

America To Spend $475,000, Send 500 To Olympic Games

By TED SMITS

New York, July 26 (AP)—A decision to invade Europe in 1948 with 500 athletes backed by $475,000 will be made formally Monday when the United States Olympic committee meets here.

This country has not yet accepted the invitation to compete in the renewal of the Olympic games but that is only a technicality. The real problems before the committee concern transportation and financing.

The composition of the powerful American team is also no great worry. Spring and summer performances all down the line, with the possible exception of women's track and field, show that the United States will have at London next year another of its great Olympic teams.

The last games were in 1936 in Berlin. The 1940 games were originally set for Tokyo and later shifted to Helsinki. World War enforced a long postponement and resulted in awarding the 1948 games to London.

Discussing the problem of transportation, Dan Ferris, committee member from the Amateur Athletic Union, declared "There is some sentiment for flying over. But we would have better team spirit if we went by boat. We have made contacts for an Army transport, but this would not be practicable unless it were one of the better ones."

The delicate question of carrying over food for American athletes must also be considered. From 75 to 100 athletes will be sent to the winter games in St. Moritz, Switzerland, Jan. 30-Feb. 8, 1948. The Olympic games in London July 29-Aug. 14 will draw a team of 400 to 450 men and women.

A tentative budget of $475,000 has been worked out, which is 50 per cent above that required in 1936.

Make-up of the track and field team will not even be considered until the final trials next year, but there will be no ban on informal discussions. The single mood is one of extreme optimism.

"In the men's events we appear to have the class of the world except possibly in the distances, and the hop, step, and jump," said Ferris. "Our women so far are rather disappointing. Russia is apt to clean up there if she competes."

"There have been great performances everywhere this spring in the United States," said Asa S. Bushnell, secretary of the Olympic committee. "Our team should be as good or better than those in the past."

There is no team championship in the Olympics, with each event considered on a separate basis.

Once before, last May, Mrs. Truman's condition appeared desperate and the president was summoned to her bedside.

He remained 12 days, transacting some of the nation's most important business from a room adjacent to his mother's sickroom in the modest Grandview cottage.

Her son's arrival brought an immediate improvement, which doctors said was due entirely to her son's presence.

Stale Bread Loss Eliminated By Use Of New Shortening

Chicago, July 26 (AP)—A new kind of shortening designed to eliminate stale bread from the grocer's shelves and the housewife's breadbox was offered today to bakers.

Its developers say that potentially it could save the nation more than 16,000,000 bushels of wheat a year.

George Carlin, director of Swift and Company's Research Bakery, said the shortening contains esterine, called technically a monoglyceride concentrate, manufactured by Swift.

In the concentrate, Carlin explained, the fat globules are super-glycerinated through a chemical combination which adds an excess amount of glycerine to the normal fatty acid content of shortening.

"The material has undergone full tests runs by bakers," said Carlin. "It is a pure food, although it adds no more nutritive value than any other fat. It prevents staling by helping normal moisture in the bread to penetrate the starch better. This adds an extra 48 hours of freshness to the commercial loaf."

Water Skier With Fin Makes Big Hit At Holland Match

Holland, Mich., July 26 (AP)—Bud Leach, 21-year-old Californian, excited the experts at the National Water Skiing Meet today.

Using a "new type" fin on a single ski, Leach took the turn in slalom trials in a manner to boost his stock for tomorrow's championship men's finals.

One observer commented afterward that he was "very much impressed," and Lewis Withey of Grand Rapids, Mich., defending champion, nodded in agreement. Withey had been an interested onlooker.

Leach, who represents the San Diego-Catalina Ski club, is able to take the turns at a 60-degree angle with the use of the new fin. The fin is eight inches long and dips about four inches into the water.

The Californian gracefully rounded all 12 buoys on the Lake Macajava course at about 30 miles an hour behind a speedboat. He is expected to be a principal performer as the tournament decides title in half a dozen events for men and women tomorrow.

THEIR WINTER'S SUPPLY
In days when gleaners were allowed to pick up stray ears of corn missed by the reapers, many farm workers were thus enabled to collect the best part of their winter's supply of grain.

Shots Of Alcohol
Speed Recovery Of
Surgical Potients

Chicago—(P)—A shot of pure grain alcohol into a surgery patient's arm will speed his recovery, Dr. A. C. Johnson, chief surgeon of Art Centre Osteopathic Hospital, Detroit, said Wednesday.

Dr. Johnson told a news conference that injections of one and two-thirds ounces of the alcohol, mixed with a salt solution, into the veins of major surgery patients have reduced their hospitalization from an average of 13 days to 5.7. He said use of the therapy has given the 75-bed Detroit hospital the same capacity as a 250-bed institution.

Dr. Johnson, here for the 51st annual meeting of the American Osteopathic Association, said the injections stimulate circulation, relieve pain, allay fear and provide quick nutrition. The patients, he added, achieve "euphoria", a state of well being, and are speeded on their way to early ambulation.

The alcohol, he explained, does not leave a hangover "because intravenous injections by-pass the stomach."

LIGHT VOTE
HELD LIKELYPolitical Seers In Dark
As To Tuesday's Nominations

Results of Tuesday's primary election, when Republicans and Democrats will nominate candidates to be elected to succeed the late Fred Bradley, are not discernable as to trends.

Political observers in the area are extremely wary about coming to any pre-election conclusions. Said a local resident, active in the affairs of the Republican party: "Folks around here thought a lot of Fred Bradley and they would like to see a man of the same political stature and same political faith nominated, but no one seems to want to come forward and say who that man is."

Democratic sentiment is equally evasive.

Every Republican candidate for nomination has visited Manistique in the course of the campaign, but electioneering has been on an extremely unobtrusive scale. There have been no public meetings of any sort held in the county.

The only candidacy of an aggressive nature in these parts has been waged by U. S. A. Heggblom, of Manistique, who secured most of the signatures to his nominating petition in this area. He has, on several occasions, issued challenges to other candidates to debate the issues, but no debates have as yet been held. He is also waging an extensive radio campaign and has made an active personal bid for votes in every county in the district. Though he has practiced law in Detroit for several years, he has continuously maintained his residential status in Schoolcraft county.

Off The Chest ...

BY JAY ARRELL

This is definitely off the chest. It is a matter that has been itching under our skin for the past two weeks—ever since that Sunday evening when we sat in our house and heard coming through the open door a stream of bawdy, blasphemous filth that would have shocked the keeper of the lowest dive on the Barbary Coast.

And was our face red? We had a house full of company—folks from Wisconsin to whom we had been pointing with pride the God-given loveliness of Manistique and vicinity. And then they had a hear this verbal effluvia vibrating through the screen door!

We walked to the door and looked out to check up on the offenders. It was old stuff with us. One can hear this kind of talk on South Cedar street most any time—day or night. But we were aroused a bit more this time. So we looked. There were five boys, about seventeen years old, personal acquaintances of ours from good Christian homes. They were laughing and roughing each other a bit. It was just ordinary conversation with them.

Now don't tell us that vulgar and indecent profanity is common everywhere. It isn't. Our company came from an up-to-date and progressive town about five times the size of Manistique. One of our guests is a motorman for the city bus line in that town and certainly is acquainted with a cross section of the city's population. He was shocked. "For heaven's sake, what kind of people are those?" he asked. Ashamed, we answered, "Oh, just a few local brats trying to stretch their 75-word vocabularies."

But we know better. Those kids were decent boys in every other respect. They didn't get this loathsome ribaldry out of any books and they didn't have to travel far to pick it up. It is doubtful if they had been out of town a half-dozen times in their lives. They heard someone older than themselves—some local resident—use it. They didn't have to go far. They didn't necessarily have to frequent any questionable place to hear it. They can hear plenty of it on the streets of Manistique.

The most deplorable thing about it is that children of tender years pick up this stuff and repeat it. Some folks think this sounds cute, but there is nothing cute about lipped blasphemy to fathers and mothers who have a right to, and who want to, bring up their little ones in ways that are refined and wholesome.

Indecent and blasphemous language uttered in public does not come under the category of free speech.

Gladstone Escanaba Baseball Teams In Twin Bill Here Today

Trucks Hurls Shutout; Tigers Whip A's, 13-0

Philadelphia, July 26 (AP)—Virgil "Fire" Trucks shut out the Philadelphia Athletics with four singles today and the Detroit Tigers pounded three pitchers for 15 safeties and a 13-0 victory.

George Kell, who had three hits, slammed his fourth home run of the year and Eddie Lake his tenth, each with none on base.

Jesse Flores, first of the Philadelphia flingers, suffered his 10th defeat when two errors, a double by Dick Wakefield, a bunt by Kell, single by Pat Mullin and a walk accounted for four tallies in the fourth inning.

Cramer's second of three hits figured in three Detroit runs in the fifth off Carl Scheib, who relieved Flores. Wakefield and Kell singled and Mullin got a double on which Wakefield scored. Kell was caught at the plate. Cramer's single pushed across Mullin. Cramer then moved around for the seventh run on singles by Mayo and Bob Swift. Cramer saved his biggest blow for the sixth. Kell was hit on the hand with the bases loaded to force in a run. Then the bespectacled 42-year-old center fielder lined a double into left to bring in three more runs.

Kell's circuit smash came in the eighth off Joe Coleman, who followed Scheib to the mound. Lake's came in the ninth after many of the 7,266 fans in attendance had gone, convinced this was not Philadelphia's day.

After fans could look back at a perfect week of daytime baseball—two Detroit victories Sunday against the New York Yankees and today's win. But in between were four successive defeats, all night games.

Detroit and Philadelphia meet in a doubleheader Sunday. Manager Steve O'Neill has selected as Pitchers Freddie Hutchinson and Al Benton, opposing Bill Dietrich and Dick Fowler.

The Presbyterian softball team has been requested by Gump Olson, manager, to report to the Ludington Park diamond Monday night at 6 o'clock for practice before the team trounces the First Methodist softballers. The game at 6:30 is the annual grudge battle between the teams for the trophy.

REDSKINS AND BEARS CLASH

Cubs Play In Prelim At 1 p. m. With Gladstone Juniors

The Escanaba Bears and Gladstone Redskins will clash at City diamond in Escanaba this afternoon, the game that sports fans of the two neighboring cities have been awaiting for weeks. And to add more spice to the dish for the baseball faithful, it will be a doubleheader program, with the Escanaba Cubs meeting the Gladstone Juniors at one o'clock. The feature tilt is booked for three o'clock.

SEVERAL PLAYERS LOST

Gladstone—Determined to get back in the win column after two successive defeats, the Gladstone Redskins travel to Escanaba today to clash with their old rivals, the Bears.

The Redskins have been weakened by the loss of several players and their absence is definitely noted in the play of the team as a whole.

Members of the team will meet at the city hall at one o'clock to leave for Escanaba.

The Bears and Redskins, who have not yet met this season, have been battling for top place in the South division of the Rainbow league week after week. The Redskins have been right up to the top of the league standings all the way until the middle of the past week when they lost a 6-5 decision to Chatham in a make-up game. Thus, for the first time since the season opened in May the Bears are in front of the Redskins in the loop standings, but only by a half a game and Gladstone can reverse that position today.

Manager John Schwalbach of the Bears has not indicated his selection for mound duty. All three local pitchers worked three innings against the Zulu Giants Thursday night. It is Jack Beck's turn to pitch in the Rainbow league series, however, and it is probable that he will draw the starting assignment. Rothschild is a likely starter for the Redskins.

In the opening half of the twin bill, the Escanaba Cubs, piloted by Al Ness, will meet the Gladstone Juniors at one o'clock. These junior league teams, members of the Tri-County league, have displayed some sparkling baseball this season and fans are urged to come early to see these youngsters in action. The Cubs currently are leading the Tri-County league.

The Junior Hardball schedule for the coming week was announced yesterday as follows:

He defeated Avery Beck of Raleigh, N. C., 6 and 5, over the Meadowbrook Municipal course.

The Sports Parade

BY JIM WARD

BY KEN GUNDERMAN

(Pinch-hitting for Jim Ward)

This concludes my two weeks' stint as a pinch-hitter. Jim Ward, who returned yesterday from Camp Grayling after two weeks' maneuvers with the Michigan National Guard, Jim will be back on the sports desk Monday and will resume his daily chats with you regarding what's new in local sports.

The four teams of the South division of the Rainbow baseball league which are making a blanket race for the division title will be in action today against each other. The Escanaba Bears, tied with Gladstone at the top, will play the Gladstone Redskins, who are only a half game off the pace, while Munising will meet the Cardinals of Manistique, who also are only a half game away from the top.

Two of the three teams in the North division tied for leadership in that division will also meet today. They are Humboldt and Marquette, both of whom are now bracketed with Ishpeming at the top of the standings.

It'll be a big week for softball in Escanaba during the next six days—and nights. Tournament games will be played in three classes since Class C was reinstated this year. Not all districts in the peninsula will have a Class C division, however, and the eight C teams in the local district tournament probably represents more than half of the total number of clubs in that classification north of the straits.

Frosty Ferzacea, who will coach the South team in the U. P. all-star football game at Negaunee Aug. 16, is taking his job with appropriate seriousness. Ferzacea will write all boys selected for the South squad, giving them instructions on how to get in shape before reporting for the opening of practice Aug. 8. He also will outline some of the intricacies of the T formation which he will use against the North team.

Frosty is now checking up on the athletic backgrounds of many of the boys who will be chosen for his squad so that he will be more familiar with his talent when the boys meet at Negaunee.

Iron Mountain and Norway veterans organizations are pooling their resources and manpower to stage an amateur boxing show at Norway Aug. 30 to feature the opening night of the Dickinson county fair. Ben Dishaw, former Iron Mountain middleweight, will be matchmaker. The Escanaba Lions club steel ring will be used for the bouts.

Browns Smothered

By Red Sox, 12 to 1

Boston, July 26 (AP)—Ted Williams collected two homers and Jake Jones one each with one on base today as the Boston Red Sox collected 16 hits to smother the St. Louis Browns 12-1.

Pitcher Joe Dobson won his 12th victory, walking none, fanning five and holding the Browns to six hits.

The Browns got their lone run in the first inning when Johnny Berardino singled and scored on Paul Lehner's freak triple to right center.

After that not a single St. Louis man got below second base. Williams whacked out his 21st homer in the first inning and his 22nd in the third. At that point he had hit safely six times in succession, four of the hits being circuit drives.

Double In 9th Puts Dodgers Ahead To Pluck Pirates, 6-4

Pittsburgh, July 26 (AP)—Pee Wee Reese's ninth inning double kept the Dodgers seven-game winning streak alive today as the Brooklyn club banged out a 6-4 decision over Pittsburgh for their fifth straight success of their western trip.

Reese's blow broke a 4-4 deadlock that came about when the Pirates spurred for four runs in the seventh on two walks, Wally Westlake's single and Jimmy Woodworth's big three-run homer.

Carl Furillo opened the Dodgers ninth with a single and was sacrificed to second by Dixie Walker. After Bruce Edwards was intentionally passed by Nick Strincevich, Reese unloaded his double to right, scoring Furillo. The Pirates then decided to walk Johnny Jorgensen, loading the bases. Reliever Hugh Casey beat out a bunt single, driving in Edwards with an unnecessary run.

Senators Register Fifth Victory, Take Cleveland, 8 and 4

Washington, July 26 (AP)—The Washington Senators scored their fifth straight win today by defeating Cleveland 8-4 and moved into fifth place in the American League.

Cleveland, which one time held a four-run lead over Washington in today's game, fell back to sixth place.

Cleveland pried four runs from Marino Pieretti in the first four innings, but the Senators picked up two runs off Mel Harder in the fourth and added three more in the fifth when they belted the veteran right-hander from the mound. Ed Klieaman yielded three runs in the seventh.

LEADING YANKS TRIPPED, 2 TO 1

Tresh Scores Both Runs For Chicago; Lopat Halts Sluggers

New York, July 26 (AP)—Lefty Ed Lopat brought the New York Yankees' slugging carnival to an abrupt halt today with a neatly pitched three-hit victory over the league leaders to give Chicago a 2-1 victory.

Halting Joe DiMaggio's hitting streak after 13 straight games, Lopat lost his shutout to Tommy Henrich's 13th homer in the fourth. The only other Yank hits were singles by Pitcher Bill Bevens in the third and George Sirmweiss in the sixth.

Sirmweiss lost the game in the eighth with his error on Taft Wright's grounder that enabled Mike Tresh to score from third. Tresh had opened the inning with a single, taken second on Lopat's sacrifice bunt and advanced to third on Floyd Baker's infield out.

Tresh scored both Chicago runs as he walked, stole second and rode home on Lopat's single to left in the sixth to tie the score.

Lopat, the only consistent pitcher on Ted Lyons' staff, racked up his eighth win to nine defeats and his 10th complete game of the season.

The loss, combined with Boston's romp over St. Louis cut the Yanks' commanding lead to 10½ games with 61 to play.

Chicago ... 000 001 010—2 6 0
New York ... 000 100 000—1 3 2

The program features outstanding talent from many fields. Jane Gibbs, of New York City, 4-H stylist for the Simplicity Pattern company, will highlight the girls program of classes. General programs for both boys and girls include Bill Kluender of St. Paul, forestry representative of the C. & N. W. George Bishop, secretary-manager of the U. P. Development Bureau will have his time-honored spot as speaker for the beautiful 4-H candlelighting ceremony. Service club members will hold their initiation in connection with the ceremony.

Members of the Escanaba Rotary club will be guests of the camp on Thursday, August 7, and will remain for the club members' banquet and dress revue that evening.

An important part of the program during the week will be the picking of winners in 4-H contests. These contests include judging, demonstrations, achievement booth, and dress revue. Winners will be awarded trips to the State show at Lansing, where further competition will be held with other districts of the state.

The staff at Camp Shaw will be made up of the U. P. club agents, and home demonstration agents, and representatives of the state club office including A. G. Kettunen, state club leader.

PAY TRIBUTE TO GEOLOGIST

Douglas Houghton Gets Credit For Copper Discovery

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series on historical spots and monuments in Michigan. Historical information for the series has been obtained from the Michigan Historical Collections at the University of Michigan.)

A stone monument at Eagle River near the tip of the Keweenaw Peninsula commemorates an intrepid young man who made the first scientific survey of Michigan's valued mineral deposits.

He was Douglass Houghton, one-time Detroit mayor, University of Michigan professor, surgeon, physician, geologist, botanist, mineralogist, and flute player.

Erected in 1914, the monument marks the spot opposite near where Houghton, the State's first official geologist, drowned Oct. 13, 1845, at the age of 36 in a Lake Superior storm.

Built into the monument are samples of rock from every lode that then traversed the State's copper district, pieces of rock from many parts of the Upper Peninsula and from other parts of the State.

For it was as state geologist from 1837 to his death that he had much to do with making known the vast mineral deposits and other resources of Michigan, especially the Upper Peninsula. The Michigan Historical Collections at the University of Michigan indicate his reports on copper bearing rocks in the Upper Peninsula were the main factor in attracting capital to the copper country.

As evidence of that, no less than 104 copper mining companies, whose holdings extended from the Porcupine Mountains to the St.

Mary's River, had been formed by 1846, just a few years following Houghton's report to the Legislature on the finding of copper.

Houghton had come to Detroit before he was 20 to give public lectures in botany, chemistry and geology and to continue his medical practice which he had begun in New York more than a year before. Because of his ability and friendliness he soon had so many friends who were always visiting him that he had to do much of his private studying at night.

But this five-foot, five-inch dynamo still found time to become an expert flute player and to tramp over miles of Michigan on his personal scientific expeditions.

Then in 1837, the year Michigan was admitted to the Union, Houghton was appointed State geologist by Gov. Stevens T. Mason, after demonstrating through his voluntary explorations the need for such a person.

Besides being State geologist, Houghton filled the positions of professor of chemistry, mineralogy and geology at the University from 1839 to his death, and as mayor of Detroit from 1842 to 1844.

According to the Historical Collections, Houghton's reports indicate he also had outlined Michigan's coal basin, and called attention to the importance of deposits of gypsum, coal, peat, clay, limestone, and iron ore.

Accordion Is Career Of Manley Anderson

Manley Anderson, who, when he was graduated from Escanaba high school some years back, was as well known for his ability as a soft ball player as he was for the music of the accordion which he played on programs and for dances in Escanaba and neighboring communities, has made accordion music his career, and has built up a profitable and interesting business.

Manley, with his wife and their two sons, Donald and Robert, are in Escanaba for their annual summer vacation, visiting at his family home, 827 Washington avenue. Since 1934, after he had completed a course at the Chicago Conservatory of Music, he has been giving instructions in accordion music and band training at the Music Center, the studio which he opened at 6637 Halstead street.

The accordion has come to be one of the most popular instruments in the country, in Mr. Anderson's opinion. People from all walks of life, professional men and women, students and common laborers are finding relaxation and pleasure in its music.

"One of my pupils is a doctor, 62 years old," he said yesterday, "and when he learns to play 'Swanee River' he is going to be the happiest man alive." "The accordion, however, is taking its place with the finest of orchestral instruments," Mr. Anderson continued. "At one time 'Coming 'Round the Mountain' was the type of music usually associated with it, but now, more often than not, the accordionist is playing Bach or Liszt or compositions of the other masters. Recently the accordion was used for the first time with a symphony orchestra in Orchestra Hall."

Mr. Anderson is justly proud of one of his star pupils, Joan Mertic, 17-year-old Chicago girl, who, on June 1, won the national amateur championship, as an accordion soloist, in class A of the competition.

Likes Home Town

Accordions, Mr. Anderson said, range in price from $75 for the small instruments, which most beginners use, to $1,500. He has found that girls advance more quickly than men in mastering the accordion, due to the fact that they are more studious and spend more hours in practice.

Mr. Anderson hopes some day to return to Escanaba and establish a similar business here. He is sure, he said yesterday, that there are as many people interested in accordion music in this

Pen Maker Offers $25,000 To $100,000 Bet On Global Race

Chicago, Illinois, (P) — Milton Reynolds, Chicago pen manufacturer, whose "Bombshell" plane is groomed for a world-circling solo flight August 3, has offered to wager "any amount between $25,000 and $100,000" if anyone is willing to make a race of it.

The offer was announced by Franklin Lamb, president of the Reynolds Pen company, who said Reynolds had made it in a cablegram from Paris, France.

Lamb said Reynolds' wager was conditional upon competitors taking off "at the same time the Bombshell takes off (from Chicago) on August 3, rules to be mutually agreed upon, and acceptance before July 30, so that full preparations can be made."

Reynolds offer, Lamb said, applied to "any class of privately owned plane which anyone cares to race."

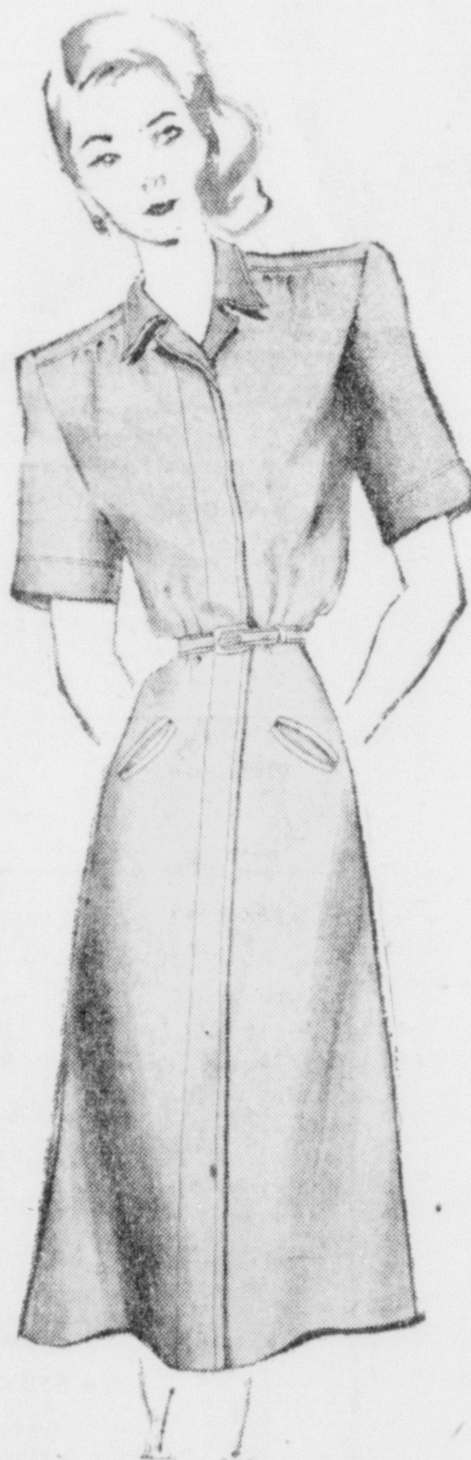

Lamb said the Bombshell's pilot, Capt. Bill Odom had expressed himself as "heartily in favor" of such a race, and confident that he would win it.

community, comparatively speaking, as there are in Chicago, and besides, he admits this is the most important reason, his home town has never lost its attraction for him.
